

Masterpiece

Andy Grammer

Life is a canvas you paint in the mind
Colors dance, spill outside the lines
I refuse to settle, never the black and white
Rock the neons until the day I die I'm on a constant search to make my heart swell
Bite off too much, chew like hell
Half my nights spent in a hotel
Price I paid to escape the conveyor belt One, you get one heartbeat so, take it seriously
This is your masterpiece, don't forget to dream
And taste the colors in the air you breathe
It's your masterpiece, go ahead and feel it all
Don't stop till it is beautiful
(Oh whoa)
Don't stop till it is beautiful
(Oh whoa)
Don't stop till it is beautiful
Close my eyelids, take a deep breath
Feel the lightening down to my chest
I'm just a piece of art, and the paints fresh
Cuz I'm not yet finished yet
I've got a pregnant mind that wants to give birth
Breathe life into these big words
I can hear the universe in my ear She whispers, you get one, one heartbeat so take it seriously
This is your masterpiece, don't forget to dream
And taste the colors in the air you breathe
It's your masterpiece, go ahead and feel it all
Don't stop till it is beautiful
Oh whoa)
Don't stop till it is beautiful
(Oh whoa)
Don't stop till it is beautiful
And you can settle for a normal life
Said that your afraid of heights
But you were meant to light the sky
This is your masterpiece
Don't forget to breathe and taste the colors in the air you breathe
This is your masterpiece go ahead and feel it all
Don't stop till it is beautiful
Oh whoa)
Don't stop till it is beautiful
(Oh whoa)
Don't stop till it is beautiful
(Oh whoa.)

Don't stop till it is beautiful
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>