

Enough (feat. Jennifer Nettles)

Reba McEntire

He tells me he's working late
He tells me that he can't stay too long
So I turn the lights off
I fall asleep before he's home
Tomorrow I wake up alone
Feeling that familiar low
My heart screams enough
But every time I think I've had enough
He comes around and wraps me up in love
And I wind up giving in
'Cause he gives me just enough
To make me think that there's still hope for us
But in the end it's only me
Wishing I could be
Wishing I still was enough
He thinks it's best to tell me lies
He don't even try to hide the truth
So he won't hurt me
He made a promise he can't keep
He can't promise anything
The half of him he gives to me
Will never be enough
But every time I think I've had enough
He comes around and wraps me up in love
And I wind up giving in
'Cause he gives me just enough
To make me think that there's still hope for us
But in the end it's only me
Wishing I could be
Wishing I still was
Enough to make him wanna stay
Enough to make him walk away
I just wanna hear him say my love's
Enough
To make me think that there's still hope for us
But in the end it's only me
Wishing I could be
Wishing I still was
Enough
I know I'll never be
Oh, I know I never was
Enough

Enough
Oh I'm wishing I could be
No, I'll never be
Oh, enough
Enough
Enough
Enough
Oh, enough
Never be

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>