

Who to Blame (feat. Randy Newman)

Emile Haynie

When they make, you're gone
And the twilight sings a sad song on
All the day, you're gone
You told me the game
Well baby you should do next
So baby don't go round
Acting like you're new to the town
Just when it all falls down
Well that's just a game
And baby you should be next to crazy Oh, time stumbles on
You've been in the cold for far too long
See this little girl chasing fame, chasing fame
Till the old washed up in the morning
Got no one to blame And now you did stay home
Too much time to think
When you're all alone
Remember how it all went wrong
Driving you crazy, you go out every night
And lately you be smart
You can only see your beauty
When it's a man's eyes
And where you're at, you're fine
Praying at games, so crazy need to slow down
So baby Oh, the time moves on
You've been in the cold for far too long
See this little girl chasing fame, chasing fame
Till the old washed up in the morning
Got no one to blame You've broken in so many pieces
It's a dice of little life, I know
Will I find out all your secrets
Your lies and all your weakness
Would be no tomorrow
'Cause it all goes wrong
I'm sorry darling, this can't go on just like that You're gone
I don't play that game, baby told you don't act so crazy
Oh, time stumbles on
You've been in the cold for far too long
See this little girl chasing fame, chasing fame
But I slow down and hold every time
So who's to blame
I fall down that hole every time

Maybe I'm to blame, blame
I fall down that hole every time
Maybe I'm to blame, blame
I fall down that hole every time
Maybe I'm to blame, blame
But I fall down that hole every time
Maybe I'm to blame, blame

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>