

Any Moment Now (with Hugh Jackman)

Barbra Streisand

Any moment now, he'll notice me
Me, and my butterfly heart
Any moment now, he'll turn around and grin
And say at last where have you been?
We're late for daybreak on the Riviera
If not the Riviera, the beach at Malibu
The rich Madera sunset, going on forever
With my arms growing cold,
And his arms growing warm with life unfolding
Any moment now, he'll say to me
Why don't you follow your heart?
How can he know that I've been praying he'd arrive
Afraid to come alive till then, just saying
Any moment now
Any moment now, she'll notice me
Me and my, simple guy ways
Any moment now, she'd said she'd settle down
If that were true I'd paint the town
I'd take her flying to Atlantic City
If not Atlantic City, to see Niagara Falls
I know a pretty trout stream up above Seattle
What a life we could build in a home, that is filled with love and laughter
Any moment now
You'd say to me

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>