

Break Through the Silence (Radio Edit)

Martin Garrix & Matisse & Sadko

We were never meant to be quiet I'm on the edge, gotta get away
I've seen it all before
I'm going down like a renegade
And I'm still begging for more This is the last time I tell you to open your eyes
The city is sleeping, the monster's outside
The fire is burning, there's nowhere to hide
And I won't say it anymore Break through the silence
I can feel the energy rising
Turn up the sirens
We were never meant to be quiet
Break through the silence
I can feel the energy rising
Turn up the sirens
We were never meant to be quiet There are lights that'll lead the way
To what we're searching for
A million miles from yesterday
And it's right here on the floor This is the last time I tell you to open your eyes
The city is sleeping, the monster's outside
The fire is burning, there's nowhere to hide
And I won't say it anymore Break through the silence
I can feel the energy rising
Turn up the sirens
We were never meant to be quiet
Break through the silence
I can feel the energy rising
Turn up the sirens
We were never meant to be quiet
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>