

Camouflage

Selena Gomez

Dead-end streets and boulevards
You threw in the towel, I broke your heart
But there's a first time for everything
Who would've thought you'd feel so cold
And all these memories seem so old
To think you were my everything Remember when we'd talk all night
But time ain't easy on us, how can love die? I got so much shit to say
But I can't help feeling like I'm camouflage
Fortress around my heart
You were mine just yesterday
Now I have no idea who you are
It's like you camouflage
But it's good to see you here again
I don't wanna say goodbye
But it's about half past ten
And I have to catch my ride Riding alone on the 405
And life's so fragile, it's like I could cry
If that's the last time I'd see you again
But I'll never tell you just how I felt
You might just not care, and it might just not help What if the feelings just don't make no sense to you, you
Remember when we'd talk all night But time ain't easy on us, how can love die?
I got so much shit to say
But I can't help feeling like I'm camouflage
Fortress around my heart
You were mine just yesterday
Now I have no idea who you are
It's like you camouflage
But it's good to see you here again
I don't wanna say goodbye
But it's about half past ten And I have to catch my ride
I got so much shit to say
But I can't help feeling like I'm camouflage
Fortress around my heart
You were mine just yesterday
Now I have no idea who you are
It's like you camouflage
But it's good to see you here again
I don't wanna say goodbye
But it's about half past ten
And I have to catch my ride

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>