

Forgiveness (feat. Joe Cleere)

Sam Feldt

There was something inside that you set to fall Hit me like a hammer blow when the music stops and the chairs are gone and you called me out and I followed you you held me like a child's balloon as the light came down in a empty room

All we have is forgiveness always walking a fine line to a love that would mean less or would last us a lifetime all this talking of weakness and the looks from the sideline
all we have is forgiveness
that I'm trying to find.

let the candles burn, let the colours fade that was just a part you played while the bullets flew and the fires raged I know you keep your cards behind you for evidence and trials don't you let the search lights blind you.

All we have is forgiveness
always walking a fine line
and the looks from the sideline
that I'm trying to find.

Even though we can't go backwards
I will always be there for you
Even though we can't go backwards

always walking a fine line

that I'm trying to find.
