

Army

Lady Antebellum

She can hold my dreams right there in her pocket
And shut down fear with your hand
She's a parachute, bulletproof, oh
And she's the softest place to land
On the front line she's a statue, a safe place to run to
The strength I need to get through every day So if anybody thinks I'm a hero
When they watch me walk right into the flames
I'm just marching to the sound of her heartbeat
Yeah, I'm a soldier but if I'm a soldier
She's an army, an army, an army
Yeah, she's an army, an army, an army
I ain't never been one to back down for the battle, yeah
And she knows that better than anyone
When I'm under fire, when it's down to the wire
I know she's my loaded gun So if anybody thinks I'm a hero
When they watch me walk right into the flames
I'm just marching to the sound of her heartbeat
Yeah, I'm a soldier but if I'm a soldier
She's an army, an army, an army
Yeah, she's an army, an army, an army, ooh yeah On the front line she's a statue, a safe place to run to
The strength I need to get through every day
So if anybody thinks I'm a hero
When they watch me walk right into the flames
I'm just marching to the sound of her heartbeat
Yeah, I'm a soldier but if I'm a soldier
She's an army, an army, an army
Yeah, she's an army, an army, an army

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>