

Man of the South

Morgan Wallen

[Intro]

Ahh yeah

[Verse 1]

There's some days that I wake up, can't remember where I am
Said some things, regret some things, but I really don't give a damn
Somewhere on this road I'm on I forgot what it's like to feel
I know I can't see heaven up there, but I know that it's real
And I ain't sure If I'll get in, but you best believe I'll try, yeah
And this is what my daddy told me, and this is how I live my life

[Chorus]

Got to take that ball cap off before you say grace
And always own up to your own mistakes
And don't you ever back down, no way no how
Got to make your daddy proud that he raised a man of the south
Yeah, that's what he did

[Verse 2]

I can't heal the broken hearts I left so far behind
On this road I have chose I lost all sense of time
So I drift into the night tryna drown away my sorrows
It might be wrong, but that's alright 'cause all the time is borrowed anyways

[Chorus]

Got to take that ball cap off before you say grace
And always own up to your own mistakes
And don't you ever back down, no way no how
Got to make your daddy proud that he raised a man of the south

[Bridge]

Some call me lost, some call me crazy
But that's okay
Think what you want, say what you will
But I've always kept it real
There's a cost for all these sins, and I'm bound to pay the price
Now this is what my daddy told me, and that's how I live my life

[Chorus]

Got to take that ball cap off, son, before you say grace

And always own up to your own mistakes
And don't you ever back down, no way no how
Got to make your daddy proud that he raised a man of the south
A man of the south
Ahh, take it away boys
Better take that ball cap off son

Lyrics provided by <https://www.songlyrics.band/>