

Willow

Jasmine Thompson

down by the water, under the willow sits a lone ranger, minding the willow he and his wife, once lived happily planted a seed, that grew through the reeds summers, and winters
through snowy decembers sat by the water, close to the embers missing out the lives that they once had beforei wouldn't leave you, i would hold you when the last day comes what if you need me?
won't you hold me?
on the last day, our last day mister and missus dreamed of a willow carving their names, into their willow if he had spoken, love would return spoken inside, too soft to be heardsummers and winters
sat by the water, remembering embers missing out the lives that they once had
won't you hold me?
on the last day, our last day
ahhhhh
ahhhh ahhhhhhhhhhhhhhh
ahhhhh
ahhhh
ahhhhhhhhhhhhhhsomewhere the timing will all come together the mishaps will turn into sunny decembers the lovers, will be able, to find their willowi wouldn't leave you, i would hold you
i wouldn't leave you, i would hold you
won't you hold me?
on the last day, on our last day

ahhhh
